Level: Elementary

Video: Mr. Bean Gets Ready in a Car

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-KGTZlh1Uaw>

Objectives: Present Simple for routines
Clothing and basic morning routine vocabulary

Plan: Inform your class that you are now going to tell them about your morning routine. After you finish, you will ask them true/false questions about what you said.

Show the picture of Mr. Bean. Ask if any of the students know him and if they can tell you a bit about him. If not, explain to the class that he is a British comedian. You are going to show them a video clip of him getting ready in the morning.

Pre-teach any necessary vocabulary. For Turkish students, they will probably need “to put on” “to rinse” and “a tie.” “To put on” is a good phrasal verb here because students never know it. Also, they use a separate verb for putting on things like ties, jewelry, or watches, so this lesson shows that we use the same verb in English.

Cut up the sentences below and hand them to pairs of students. Tell the students to put them in the order that they think Mr. Bean does them.

Show the video clip. Have the students rearrange the sentences according to the clip.

Show the video a second time if needed.

In pairs, have the students tell each other about their morning routine. Then either have them switch partners and relate their last partner’s routine, or choose a few students to share their partners routine with the class.

Follow-up Activities:

Take the cut up sentences back. Show the clip again and pause at each activity. Have the students shout out the present continuous sentence.

Take the cut up sentences back. Put only the verbs on the board and see if students can complete the sentences.

Have the students add sequence adverbs to the sentences (first, next, then, finally, etc).

Practice “should” by asking students if Mr. Bean should drive with his feet or if he should take of his pajamas before he leaves the house.
